Beautifully written, without excessive sentimentality [...] captivating fable. A successful reappropriation of ancient literature and philosophy." -- Ariane Singer, Le Monde

- A powerful praise for TEN DAYS WITH MRS. DALLOWAY:
 "I greatly enjoyed it; I found it to be beautifully crafted. The entire narrative set around Monk's House and Charleston struck me as deeply moving, with Virginia woven into the story with remarkable naturalness. The character of Lea is outstanding. The novel is elegantly written, and the protagonist's distress is conveyed with great clarity and sensitivity. All in all, my sincere congratulations."

- HYPOCHONDRIA (Coach House), a personal and literary examination of hypochondria featured in The Guardian, got an amazing review in The New York Times:
